Introduction to Course of Study in Drama

Stages 5 and 6
Drama can be one of the most rewarding subjects a student can engage in - I think it is because as a practice, it touches on so many of the other subjects. In theory it crosses English, History, Politics, and the sciences, such as Psychology. In its art-form - it is music, voice, visual art, and design. It is a physical discipline - much like dance and P.E. It is also public speaking; it is debating. Drama embraces new technologies, such as digital photography and video production, podcasting, vidcasting and online publishing.
The study of Drama develops the talents and capacities of all students - physical, emotional, intellectual, social, spiritual, creative and expressive - Drama practice develops sensitivity, teamwork, self-awareness, self-confidence and self-esteem.
Drama is a collaborative art form that involves the creative interaction of individuals using a range of artistic skills. Drama is an important means of understanding, constructing, appreciating and communicating social and cultural values; interpreting, valuing and transmitting the past and traditions; exploring, celebrating and challenging the present and imagining the future.

Drama caters for a broad range of students from varying social and cultural backgrounds and allows for the exploration of attitudes and values of many groups in Australian society as students make, perform and critically study aspects of Drama and theatre in Australian and other societies and cultures.

When students ‘do’ Drama, they learn about themselves, the world they live in, and how to both understand, represent, and critically reflect that world for an audience.

What is Drama?
In the Creative Arts K-6 Drama syllabus, students make, perform and appreciate their own Drama and that of others. In making and performing, students develop knowledge, understanding and skills about contexts and forms.

The contexts are:
- Situation
- Role
- Elements of Drama
- Performance
- Elements of Theatre.

The forms are:
- Improvisation
- Narrative Forms
- Movement and Mime
- Scripted Drama.
In Drama Stages 4-5 (Years 7-10) students will develop knowledge, understanding and skills, individually and collaboratively, through:

- making drama that explores a range of imagined and created situations in a collaborative drama and theatre environment
- performing devised and scripted drama using a variety of performance techniques, dramatic forms and theatrical conventions to engage an audience
- appreciating the meaning and function of drama and theatre in reflecting the personal, social, cultural, aesthetic and political aspects of the human experience.

Values and attitudes:

Students will value and appreciate:

- the collaborative and diverse nature of drama and theatre
- the contribution of drama and theatre to enriching and sustaining cultures and societies.
In the Stage 6 Drama course (Years 11 & 12), students will develop:

knowledge and understanding about, and skills in, making
- drama through participation in a variety of dramatic and theatrical forms
- drama and theatre using a variety of dramatic elements, theatrical techniques and conventions,

values and attitudes about
- the collaborative nature of drama and theatre

knowledge and understanding about, and skills in, performing
- using the elements of drama and theatre in performance
- in improvised and playbuilt theatre, and scripted drama

values and attitudes about
- the diversity of the art of dramatic and theatrical performance

knowledge and understanding about, and skills in, critically studying
- the place and function of drama and theatre in communities and societies, past and present
- a variety of forms and styles used in drama and theatre

values and attitudes about
- drama and the theatre as a community activity, a profession and an industry.
Drama is an artform with a discrete body of knowledge including conventions, history, skills and methods of working. It is an integral aspect of our society and is taught in school curricula worldwide.
Students engage in an integrated study of:

- the elements of drama
- through the practices of making, performing and appreciating
- within the context of a range of dramatic forms, performance styles, their theatrical conventions, techniques/ staging devices.

Drama is a dynamic learning experience that caters for a diverse range of students and prepares them for effective and responsible participation in society, taking account of moral, ethical and spiritual considerations.
In this unit, students engage in improvisation as spontaneous, unscripted performance. Students use spontaneous improvisations to understand the Elements of Drama, Dramatic Structure, and develop situations and dramatic meaning through the use of their imagination and increasing level of skills.

The game of TheatreSports is employed as a “framework for the teaching of theatre skills: storytelling, focus, musicianship, status, physicalisation, dance, mime, timing, singing, theatre history, stage presence, stagecraft, voice training, characterisation, playbuilding, discipline, and good sportsmanship” (Pierse, 1995, pp. 19-20).
In response to works of Visual Art, students are encouraged to explore a range of performance possibilities associated with Non-Realistic performance styles, such as the creation of abstract, strange, symbolic, and dream-like performance works. In particular, students engage with the Elements of Drama to show how they work together to communicate dramatic meaning, such as a heightened interpretation of the world through the use of stylised acting.
Mumming

Students learn the dramatic tradition and structure of the Mumming Show, which were folk plays, usually short comic dramas with rhyming texts, which appeared from the mid to late 18th century in England.

In Performance troupes, students engage in the collaborative process to devise and present originally scripted Mumming Shows and build and sustain characters appropriate to the performance style.

Throughout this unit, students learn how to apply the Elements of Drama and learn about stock characters, playbuilding structure, storyline adaptation, characterisation, scriptwriting, and audience engagement.
Puppetry

In this topic, students learn the style of theatre which involves the manipulation of puppets. Students engage, experientially in both the making and the manipulation of various puppets. Some of the forms of puppetry students engage with include:

- Bringing inanimate objects to life,
- Finger and Hand Puppetry,
- Recycled Puppetry,
- Shadow puppetry
- Bun-Raku-style Object Puppetry (including Trash Band & Body Percussion)
- Bodies as Puppets (including large-image shadow Puppetry & Black-light).

In small groups, students collaborate to devise, rehearse, and present a performance in the theatrical tradition of Puppetry.
Film and Media Art: Music Video

In this unit, students engage in Music Video Production; they choose a song and develop a mimed performance so that the message is reframed (takes on a different meaning to the original recording).

The dance/mimed performance includes elements such as an entrance/opening image and strong finish/exit, hitting beats, frame and focus, lip-syncing, interesting use of choreography, costuming/make-up and an interesting message vis-à-vis the audience. Specifically, performances can include the element of shadow puppetry using bodies as puppets as the backdrop to the performance, which is videoed, edited and digitally published. Students are also encouraged to explore special FX in post-production.
The components in the Preliminary course are interrelated and are taught in an integrated program of study.
Drama practices are active, experiential, critical and reflective.

Stage 6 HSC
Course Structure
Acting is a normal human activity. Everybody acts almost every day.

Acting is a way of showing our understanding of the world and passing it on to other people. When people tell stories, they act out parts of it - imitating voices, actions, gestures.

Stage 6 HSC Scope & Sequence 2012-2013
This topic explores, theoretically and experientially, the traditional and contemporary practices of Australian drama and theatre and the various ways in which artistic, cultural, social, political and personal issues and concerns are reflected in different contexts. Students investigate how different Australian practitioners use dramatic forms, performance styles, conventions and techniques to convey ideas and influence the ways in which audiences understand and respond to ideas and images presented in the theatre.

Two Australian Plays will be studied: A Beautiful Life & Ruby Moon
Boal & Meyerhold

This topic explores approaches to actor training in the 20th century and its realisation in theatre production or other forms of drama performance. The study involves the theoretical and experiential exploration of the philosophical and practical approaches to these two practitioners' work and the manifestation of their techniques, process and specific exercises, for performance. Students must consider the aesthetics and expression of the actor's presence and its relationship to audience engagement. Specific examples from the practitioners' theatre work, contemporary theatre practice and the student's own experiential learning should be used to explore the topic.
In the Individual Project, students learn how to initiate and present a project in an area of interest. In preparing their Individual Project, students learn how to plan, evaluate and structure their work into a refined presentation that meets the criteria of each project. They learn how to use skills appropriate to the area in which they are working, whether it is based on critical reviews of performances, dramaturgy, direction, design, performance, scriptwriting or video-drama. They learn how to manipulate theatrical elements and conventions to achieve their aims.
Group Performance

Each student learns to collaborate with a group to devise and perform in a piece of original theatre. They learn how to work cooperatively in creating dramatic works, presenting their own opinions confidently and listening to the ideas of others. They develop their Group Performance using a variety of playbuilding techniques and approaches. They learn to structure their work using dramatic elements and theatrical conventions. They learn how to edit and refine their work through rehearsal, evaluation and editing. In their performance they use expressive skills that are appropriate to the chosen style or form. They learn how to realise and sustain a role and how to establish a relationship with the audience.
The purpose of the Higher School Certificate program of study is to:
• provide a curriculum structure which encourages students to complete secondary education;
• foster the intellectual, social and moral development of students, in particular developing their:
  - knowledge, skills, understanding and attitudes in the fields of study they choose
  - capacity to manage their own learning
  - desire to continue learning in formal or informal settings after school
  - capacity to work together with others
  - respect for the cultural diversity of Australian society;
• provide a flexible structure within which students can prepare for:
  - further education and training
  - employment
  - full and active participation as citizens;
• provide formal assessment and certification of students’ achievements;
• provide a context within which schools also have the opportunity to foster students’ physical and spiritual development.
