‘The Lord is gracious and merciful, slow to anger and abounding in steadfast love. The Lord is good to all, and his compassion is over all that he has made.’

(Psalm 145:8-9 NRSV)

We continue considering what it means to be made in the image of God and to live our lives in his image and will. These verses from Psalm 145 remind us of the forgiving nature of God. God is gracious and merciful. These qualities are foundational in our relationship with him for without his grace we cannot receive his forgiveness and mercy. Jesus made it clear to us that nothing we can do is beyond the reach of God’s grace. He demonstrated this on the cross, forgiving the murderer who hung beside him when that man asked for mercy. We need to show the same grace and mercy to those who do wrong to us. This does not release them from the consequences of their wrong but our forgiveness of them will release us from the power their wrong has over us.

God is slow to anger. It takes a lot to rile him up. We only need to look at how many people in the world live rejecting him and yet he still blesses them. For many today the problem of anger is a consuming one. I can recall countless inmates at Bathurst Gaol who were incarcerated because they could not control their anger. Living in the image of God means that we don’t get angry quickly, whether it’s in the car, firing back a terse email, or snapping back at a comment we didn’t like. God abounds in steadfast love. No matter what happens God loves us. He may hate what we are doing but he still loves us. In our relationships we too need to focus our love on the person and not their behaviour. No matter what they do we need to love them, be slow to get angry, show mercy and be gracious towards them. These qualities are not easy for us to maintain but they are vital if we are to live in God’s image, in full relationship with each other and with God.

With every blessing,

Rev. Tony Card

Ability Links is a new state government initiative which kick started on July 1st, and CareWest is excited to be offering the ability links program within Central West NSW. Ability Links offers a new way to support people with a disability (aged between 9 - 64 years), their families and carers especially those who are not traditionally known to the disability service system. The program assists people to access community and mainstream services, knowledge, resources and opportunities in their communities, to enable them to live the life they choose.

The model is designed to promote the rights of people with a disability to live inclusive lives in all spheres: community, public, private and social. It is a critical part of the NSW transition to person-centred and individualised funding arrangements.

How it works?

Ability Links coordinators known as Linkers provide a locally based first point of contact in communities to improve access and engagement. Ability Links does not require an assessment (It is not needs based). It targets those who are not traditionally known to the disability service system. Ability Links is not a Case Management Service.

Linkers have three main roles:

Work with people with a disability, their families and carers to plan for their future;
Work with people and their families to help them become more confident, supporting them to achieve their goals by building new networks and accessing support and services in their community; and
Work alongside communities and mainstream services, supporting them to become more welcoming and inclusive.

Anyone can contact their local Linker. The Linker does not need proof of diagnosis or a referral. The program has no assessment or eligibility criteria and is not time-limited.

For more information on Ability Links or to be put in contact with your local Linker call 1300CareWest (1300227393)
