Bathampton Villa, an 1874 homestead designed by the colonial architect Edward Gell in Bathurst in regional NSW, has been sold. The seven-bedroom residence, which sits on a 317-hectare holding, sold shortly after its asking price was adjusted to $2.35 million.

The farm, which has been in the Gilmour family since 1856, had initial $2.5 million hopes last October.

John Newell Gilmour, who arrived in the colony from Ireland in 1832 aged 13, moved there from his Bulgandramine station at Bogan with his wife, Emma. Building the house cost £3000. The couple had 10 children, including Mary, who married James Rutherford, the eldest son of James Rutherford of Cobb & Co at Bathampton in 1890.

The homestead comes with the original brick kitchen and strangers' room. There is also the 1870s coach house with cobblestone floor and an 1820 era convict-built brick barn.

GRENFELL AIR TRAGEDY.

INVESTIGATION OPENED

GRENFELL Tuesday

Professor Henry Payne, on behalf of the Air Accidents Board, investigated the mono- plane accident on Saturday, in which Captain Young and Mr. Raymond N. Gilmour were killed when their machine fell into Forbes Street, Grenfell

Returned soldiers conveyed the remains of the airmen to the railway station. The coffins were covered with flags, and many wreaths rested upon them

FUNERAL AT BATHURST.

BATHURST, Tuesday

The funeral of Captain Young and Mr. Raymond Newell Gilmour, victims of the Grenfell air tragedy, took place this morning in the Church of England section of the Bathurst cemetery in the presence of a large assemblage, which included about 100 returned soldiers.

The bodies were brought from Grenfell by the mail tram on Monday night and placed in All Saints' Cathedral, where a service was held this morning before the interment. A crowded congregation attended. Canon Holmes conducted the service, in which the Bishop (Dr Crotty), Archdeacon Oakes, and Canon Homfray also took part

Mr. Gilmour was buried in the family vault and Captain Young in a grave in the vicinity of
